Between Us

All our townspeople's building has not been confined to Statesboro. The Grady Attaways and the J. B. Johnsons have just completed very attractive places at Tybee, and the Attaways have had open house since they moved in. The past week they entertained their dance club at their cottage, and from all reports it is quite nice. The younger Attaways have had their share of guests too, and several of our young people have been down on a house party with the Attaways twins. Eunice and J. B. have just moved in this week, but they plan to stay until school starts.

Going around over the county it's surprising how many of our people have lodges out on the river, and one very popular, which is known as Sam Franklin's club house, although quite a few have lodges out on the river.

John DeLoach's "Beachwood," the Hanners' club house on the water's edge, and Charlie Cone's club house are a few of the ones scattered over the county. Almost every afternoon in the summer you can find different crowds going on picnics to these various places. About the most popular, and certainly one of the prettiest places in this section, is Henry Mikel's place a few miles from town. He spends every possible moment out there and always has a large club house, and does have a show place to the sport-minded in our community—Statesboro has been quite busy having the place for a few years.

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Oliver and children, Wendell Jr. and Anna, are spending a vacation at Daytona Beach.

Miss Margaret Remington, of Atlanta, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hinton Remington.

Elton Kennedy has returned to Camp Stewart after spending several days with his mother, Mrs. Delma Kennedy.

THE GRAND CANYON

As seen from El Tovar the Grand Canyon of the Colorado presents a never-to-be-forgotten scene. Tumbled limestone cliffs add a riot of color makes it one of the greatest scenic marvels of the world. More than a mile deep, 200 miles long and four to eighteen miles in width, this mighty chasm is the result of centuries of erosion by the Colorado River.

Family of William Penn

Had Military Background

Strange as it may seem, William Penn came from a military family and in his youth was not averse to drawing a sword himself when the occasion warranted it. His father, the wealthy and valiant Admiral William Penn, who joined his sea-military father and was a captain before he was 21. He later became a rear admiral and vice admiral of Ireland and, in 1652, vice admiral of England. He was an English general in the First Dutch war, and a great captain commander under the duke of York, who afterwards became James the Second, says the National Republic.

The future proprietor of Pennsylvania, with such a naval and military background, was born in London, October 14, 1644. His youth was not unlike that of other English boys in a similar station of life, but he possessed a strong religious streak which his military father could not understand. He had inherited it from his gentle mother, who was the daughter of a Puritan merchant, and this parent understood, if she did not strongly encourage, the religious side of his nature.

Young Penn started his education as a boy in the English school at Chigwell and then entered a private school in London. When the family moved to Ireland, because of his father's duties there, William studied under a private tutor as was deemed proper for a youth of his rank. Later he entered Christ Church college in Oxford, where he made the acquaintance of Robert Spencer and John Locke, who were to be his friends in later life.

In his studies the future colonist specialized in history and theology, but he did not neglect the languages. He was proficient in the classics, and also in modern French, Dutch and Italian. During his career in the army, he was a follower of George Fox and an eloquent and persuasive talker. The religious side of the youth immediately became uppermost and the seal of reform burned within him.

Woman's Society of Christian Service. After an interesting program arranged by Mrs. Robertson, the hosts, assisted by Misses Elsie and Jimmie Lu Williams, served refreshments.

Mrs. John Proctor entertained the Ladies' Aid Society of the Primitive Baptist church Monday afternoon. After a devotional led by Mrs. Proctor, Mrs. J. C. Proctorius conducted a Bible study from Hebrews. During the social hour Mrs. Proctor served refreshments.

During the business session the following officers were elected for the next conference year:

ANOTHER ONE GONE

FROM BOARD OF REGENTS

Atlanta, Aug. 11.—The latest member of the State Board of Regents who voted against Governor Tallmadge at the Coking-Pittman "trial" to resign is Jack Lance, president of Young Harris College. Governor Tallmadge immediately appointed Martin Bell, Gainesville, to succeed.

Men Teachers Decrease

After having comprised 32 per cent of the nation's school teachers in 1900, men now make up 25 per cent (266,000) of the teachers. According to a government survey made public recently, this is an increase of 7 per cent over the 1920 figure. Also brought out was the fact that Latin, French and Spanish are losing ground in high schools. It was pointed out that in 1900 one out of two students studied Latin; today only four out of every 25 study it. Most popular subjects listed were English and mathematics.

HUFFMAN IS ADDED WESLEYAN GROUP

Graduate of Duke Made Head of Department Of Religion for Next Year

Macon, Aug. 12.—Dr. Norman Huffman, of North Carolina, will become head of the newly created department of religion at Wesleyan College this fall, Wesleyan authorities have announced.

Dr. Huffman will take up his duties when the 104th session of the college begins September 15. Before joining the Wesleyan staff, he taught at Pembroke, the woman's college of Brown University, and had lectured frequently in summer training schools. Since 1936 he has been in the ministry in the Western North Carolina conference.

He was a member of an expeditionary body to Van, Turkey, sponsored by Brown and Harvard Universities where he supervised archeological excavations and photography.

Dr. Huffman took up his duties in the class of 1930. Dr. Huffman took highest honors in Greek and was graduated magna cum laude. He received the M.A. and B.D. degrees from Duke school of divinity; the S.T.M. from Harvard divinity school, and his Ph.D. from Brown University.

Dr. Huffman's special field of study is Greek New Testament manuscripts, in which he compares the texts of the ancient hand-written copies of the New Testament to determine the original text as written by the apostles and others. His more immediate interest is making the results of his research available to the laymen and general reader through articles in church publications.

WEEK IN DEFENSE INCIDENTS OF THE

Brief Summary of Steps Taken By Our Nation To Further Aid Democracies

President Roosevelt placed airplane fuels under control, limiting shipment to points in the Western Hemisphere, the British Empire and unoccupied territories of countries resisting aggression. Secretary Hull told press conference any move of Japan into Thailand would be a matter of concern to the United States. Treasury Secretary Morgenthau announced the land-lease administration has ordered 10,000,000 yards of cotton grey goods to make uniforms for Chinese soldiers.

Aid To Russia

The state department announced extension of the trade agreement between the U.S.S.R. and the United States until August 6, 1942, to insure "continuance during the emergency period of our established commercial relations with the Soviet Union on the basis of the 1937 commercial agreement." Russia will pay cash or will earmark gold for all material bought, the department said.

Slit

The office of production management "froze" all silk supplies in the country because minimum requirements of the army and navy for silk powder bags and parachutes will consume total stocks. Price Administrator Henderson said the action should not result in retail price increases for stockings on hand. OPM formed a special commodity section to handle problems of obtaining substitute materials allocating rayon yarn and manufacturing capacity.

Labor Supply

The OPM said railroad labor and management will meet skilled labor shortages in defense industries out of available supply of railroad workers, which included 20,000 skilled mechanics now employed and 50,000 apprentices who could be promoted to release other workers. The OPM also announced 21 Gulf Coast shipyards have put into effect zone labor standards prohibiting strikes and stabilizing wages during the next two years. Federal Security Administrator McNutt said 2,500,000 jobs were filled by state employment services during the first six months of 1941, a gain of 52 percent over the same period in 1940.

Defense Housing

FWA Administrator Carmody said nearly 8,000 homes for defense workers—an average of 256 a day—were constructed during July, 16 more houses a day than in June. Mr. Carmody said 16,107 homes were completed, as of August 1, of the 90,465 approved for construction. Contracts have been let for 90,895 more, he said.

Agriculture

Assistant Price Administrator Galbraith, speaking during the annual Farm and Home Week, said "farmers must be the natural leaders in the fight against inflation. If they take the leadership then stability is assured. To stop this price increase, we need the willingness to see price advances stopped and stopped firmly." He said prices today are more favorable to farmers than in years, but it took 20 years "to re-build agriculture out of the wreckage left by the inflation of the last war."

Prices

The bureau of labor statistics reported retail food prices increased 1.5 per cent during the last two weeks of July to a level of almost 16 per cent above August, 1939. The Federal Reserve Board said national income payments by last June had reached about $38 billion a year—19 percent above May, 1940—and said unless an unusually large part of cost savings is saved and paid out in taxes, price inflation will grow.

World Affairs

Secretary of State Hull, returning to his desk after a six weeks' absence, said: "During the past six weeks, the most clinching demonstration of the world's solidarity has been given. . . (that) there is a world movement of conquest by force, accompanied by methods of governing the conquered peoples that are rooted mainly in savagery and barbarism." Secretary Hull said, "with full effort and ever-increasing production and preparation for defense . . . a successful resistance to the present world movement . . . will be made."

Power

Consumer Administrator Harriet E. Hest issued a list of suggestions to executives for the conservation of power.

PATROLMEN PLAN BUS INSPECTION

School Authorities Must Co-Operate With Safety Department in Program

The Georgia state patrol is inspecting all school buses, so that the inspection will be completed by the start of the coming school year. The reports coming in show that there are a few unsafe buses in the state of Georgia. A sticker is placed on the windshield of each bus that is inspected and found to be safe. School superintendents and county board commissioners are urged to see that their school buses are made available to the state patrolmen so that they may be inspected and, if found to be safe, approved before the school season starts. Commissioner Goodwin states that there has been a large reduction in school child fatalities, owing to the activity of the patrol in inspecting buses and organizing school bus patrols to guide children to and from school and while at school.

Major Goodwin stated that the patrol is meeting with splendid cooperation by all the school officials and by bus drivers and he urged the drivers to co-operate with the patrolmen in correcting any defects found in the buses for the protection of the children.

NEWS OF THE WEEK OVER THE NATION

In wars, as in horse races, the long shot occasionally upsets the dope and comes through to win. Some of the experts are now cautiously hazarding the guess that this may prove true of the Russians.

When the German-Russian war began, the bulk of the military authorities reluctantly agreed that Hitler was probably right when he said that it would be over in six weeks. Those six weeks and more have now passed, and the Russians, instead of retreating in confusion, are said to be planning gigantic counter-attacks.

The Germans have not taken any areas of major importance. The Red air force, which, according to German claims, was almost totally destroyed in the early days of the fighting, is still very much in evidence and is giving excellent support to the Soviet land forces. The Red mechanized equipment which was supposed to be obsolete, has, according to some reports, actually proven equal and even superior to the German. Most important of all, the morale of the Russian people—military and civilian alike—seems to have proven far more staunch than anyone expected.

Germany has not lost the Russian war. It would not come as any great surprise if Hitler's forces yet succeeded in taking Moscow, Leningrad and other key cities. But these would be hollow victories unless, at the same time, Hitler was able to destroy Russian military power. So long as substantial Red armies are fighting in the field, Hitler will not be safe no matter how much Russian territory he succeeds in conquering. On top of that, Russian civilians have shown an almost suicidal fervor in destroying areas which have been evacuated, and in sniping at German troops. The Russians are fighting on a total war in total fashion now, and they have demonstrated surprising courage.

Best of all, from the British-American point of view, is the apparent fact that Germany is suffering terrific losses. On August 2, the Russians claimed that 1,500,000 Red troops had been killed, wounded or captured. That may represent a big exaggeration—neither the Russian nor the German propaganda ministries can be depended upon for the whole truth. But if even a third or half that many German troops have been incapacitated, it is a severe reverse to Hitler. The first divisions sent into Russia were the cream of the German crop—the tough veterans of the Polish, French and Low Countries campaigns. No nation can create soldiers of that quality overnight. That may explain reports to the effect that the reserves Germany sends into Russia have proven inferior in quality to the men who preceded them.

It also seems unquestioned that Germany has lost vast quantities of aircraft and mechanized equipment—and has consumed immense amounts of oil, that most precious of war materials. Russian bombers have been driving Russian oil fields, and may have done considerable damage. And in the meantime, Britain has been carrying on determined, big-scale air raids against the Continent.

At the beginning, British spokesmen had little to say of Russian chances. They were frankly skeptical. Now they are saying that the Russians have actually stopped the Germans, and that there is no possibility of the campaign ending before the winter rains set in. If that is true, Germany will be in for a war of position—and that is precisely what Germany cannot afford. In addition, Britain gets stronger as Germany gets weaker. This war isn't over yet—but since it started has the outlook been so good for the Allies.

In time, news of the German reverses and losses is bound to seep through to the German people, no matter how much brass and lead, bells put through German morale. Then, think some, German morale will start to crack. It is a fact that in the last World War, Germany went to pieces in a matter of a few months, and the main reason for that was the collapse of morale at home. Will it happen again?

We Told 'Em About It

IN THE ISSUE of this newspaper dated July 17th, front page, there was printed in bold type these words, "Be Certain to be a Surprise in China."

And the story continued, "One of these days in the possibly near future there is going to be a Chinaman exactly on the side of the earth opposite to the Times office who is going to be surprised to within an inch of his life."

Following which, the story was continued in the detailed report of how there was a bolt of lightning had entered the Times office through the electric wires, had burned out the meter, and frightened the editorial staff practically head-headed; how the electrician who repaired the damage to the job with connection had finished the job with the installation of a ground wire pointing directly downward into the earth, the intention of which was to be to shut off the next flash of lightning toward China instead of toward the editor's bald head.

And the story closed with these words: "But we are sorry for the Chinaman who is going to be surprised to within an inch of his life when the bolt of lightning suddenly comes through into his printing office while he is at work. . . . We suspect he will be mightily upset if he gets that sizzling, sparkling bolt of lightning in his hand while reaching in the bag for one of those typographical characters."

In the saying of which we did our very best to give advance notice, for "forewarned is forearmed," said one philosopher. We didn't call Chinese names, because of two reasons, we didn't know any names, and we couldn't have called them if we had known them—but we did our best. And there is the fulfillment of our prophecy:

Shanghai Newspaper Destroyed By Explosives
Shanghai, Aug. 9.—The Central China Daily News, owned by Wang Ching-wei, Japanese puppet who heads the Nanking regime for China, was destroyed tonight by an explosion. Police attributed it to time bombs. Almost a block of adjoining properties was razed by the ensuing fire.

Time bombs, your auntie! It was that bolt of lightning, we'll bet.

Stay Close to Your Crowd

RECENTLY one of our friends who writes a column in a daily paper was discussing regretfully the fact that in a Georgia county in which 767 young men recently registered for draft, 59 of those young men were unable to sign their own names. "They had to sign 'X-His Mark'."

The writer then pursued the thought with the suggestion that, with little effort, every one of these young men could have been taught to write his name legibly. And that statement was a simple truth.

Then the columnist continued, "But, come to think about it, most of us are just as careless as these chaps. We've had time—if we'd wanted it in preference to loafing or just putting—learning to read a bit of Spanish or French or German. Have we done it? We have not."

When you get to philosophizing on such matters, you may ask yourself seriously what is the intention or importance of education? Is it merely a thrill or adornment which one cultivates to give him a sense of superiority? Often enough it is, and like-wise often enough it is that helps him to live and enjoy his neighbors. We've seen young men finish college with such adornment that they were unfitted to take hold of such opportunities as came to them, and they rotted in idleness while waiting to be called to the bar by others. Have you ever seen such persons? Don't call their names, lest they are aroused to personal resentment.

Personally we have doubt about the value of any education which puts a man outside his legitimate and desirable associates in life. The youngster who neglected to learn to write his name was walking in the rear of the procession, and he lost much of that to which he was properly entitled. The other fellow who prides himself on his attainments, often impracticable, is walking alone too far ahead.

Nearly a half century ago this writer learned a word which was more or less high-brow, but perfectly peaceable. He used it in writing a news story in connection with a sub-news story which had never heard the word. When the subscriber read the story, he thought he was being made light of. He came to the office and offered to fight the editor a fair fight with knives, brass knuckles, bare knuckles, shot guns or pocket knives. He wanted for the paper and ordered it stopped—"never let that dirty rag come into my home again," he commanded.

An hour later he came back and apologized, and renewed for another year. Some friend of ours had told him the meaning of the word which had so stirred his anger.

We realized then that we were walking too far ahead of our crowd. We haven't used that word from that day to the present, and incidentally we haven't been whipped since then. The word was simply "dark horse," which merely indicated "an unexpected entry in a political race." Hereafter we always write it that way—if we write it at all, which we rarely ever do.

Tobacco Sales Are Highly Satisfactory

Official figures for the past week reveal that Statesboro market during the four days of operation last week sold 607,036 pounds and that the average price was $21.99 per 100 lbs.

Full reports were not in from all Georgia markets, therefore a complete comparison is not possible, however it was disclosed that three markets sold at a lower average price—Metter, $20.90; Moultrie, $21.65; and Vidalia, $20.50. The highest average for the state was reported from Nashville, $24.95. Nashville also led in total receipts with 2,156,240.

CARD OF THANKS
We are taking this method to convey to friends our sincere thanks for their kindness to us while Mr. Brunson has so long been seriously ill. Especially would we include in this remembrance the members of the Woodmen of the World, of the Eastern Star, the nurses and the kind doctors. We shall never forget to praise these friends for their generosity and sympathy.

FOR SALE AT SACRIFICE

I have for sale one Ford-Perguson farm tractor in A-1 condition, practically new and used very little. It is equipped with dual wheels, two 14-inch bottom plows with the large 18-inch cutters and weeding hooks; one 5-foot 17-inch tandem disk harrow, self-starter and power lift. This is a clean outfit for any farmer that needs a tractor, and a chance to get one at a sacrifice. If interested, not write, but come and see it for yourself. I live 6 miles east of Pembroke, one mile east of Lenoir, just across the Seaboard Air Line railway tracks from the highway.
Yours very truly,
J. E. SIMS.
